
THE WATER WORKS.—The Auburn Water Works are now completed, and are working satisfactorily to the Company, and to all concerned. The water obtained through their pipes is better in purity and taste than that usually furnished by this method. The successful laying of their mains and branch pipes is a matter of congratulation to the Company, the work having been accomplished with but a small amount of the usual leakage and bursting of pipes. There are no leaks of any consequence at present in these works, and their success adds another important feature to the growth and prosperity of the city.
